

September 17, 2016 - Pre-Recorded World Satsanga for The Kevin Moore Show

Transcript of Pre-Recorded World Satsanga by Guy Steven Needler:

“Welcome to this World Satsanga, the pre-recorded World Satsanga that is being held in conjunction with The Moore Show, that’s Kevin Moore of The Moore Show. And the date for transmission is the 17th of September 2016.

I apologize for those people who have tried to use the link towards Kevin Moore’s YouTube site. He’s been moving to Amsterdam to set up a studio there. So his ability to do everything he wanted to do has been a little bit limited. But he has said that he will include the previous two Satsangas and this particular Satsanga on his YouTube site over the next week or so. So you should be able to see those there.

But those of you who do participate, who previously participated in the live Satsanga, who send questions in and even those who just listen in, will be able to download the file from the link from my website and also from the blog. But please do remember it’s a large file, because it’s a somewhat higher quality file. It’s about 50 MB, so it’ll take a little bit longer than it used to.

So let’s look at the agenda for today. I’ve got a lecture on the Ego and how it affects our spiritual progression, which is actually published by OM Times magazine on—let’s have a look at the date—later last year. And also it’s part of the Appendix in The Anne Dialogues, which is a book that’s being published by Ozark Mountain Publishing (my publisher) at the end of October 2016/ the beginning of November 2016, because the ego is a particular, shall I say, piece of discussion that I had with my late wife, Anne, in part of The Anne Dialogues. And this particular part of it is like a summary of that discussion, in terms of understanding of what the ego is and how it affects our spiritual progression.

Then we’ve got a number of different questions from people, who are sending questions in from the blogs, or previously have been part of the live Satsangas, whether it’s the World Satsanga, Far East Satsanga, or Slovenian Satsanga, and also I’ve got one from people who have written in by the website as well. So we’ll see what we can do, see if we can do them all. If we can, we will. If not, we’ll hold them over to the next Satsanga, which is the 22nd of October 2016.

And right at the very end, we’ve got a meditation, which should last about 15 minutes, which basically allows us to connect with all the people on the Earth. So trying to set up a collective function. And this one is particularly useful and particularly powerful in terms of working together, and if you like, cementing a mindset that is more in keeping with an advanced civilization, an advanced spiritual civilization rather than just a group of incarnate individuals who are going about their business without understanding who and what they are.

Part 1. Lecture

So the first part: “What is the Ego and how it affects Our Spiritual Progression?”

Well, in human terms the Ego can be loosely recognized as a state of beingness. That beingness can be described as: if somebody is considered to have a “big ego”, they are considered to think a lot of themselves and are ambitious along with many other things. These people are usually highly materialistic and not in control of their thoughts.

Conversely, on the other hand, if somebody is considered to have little or no ego, they are considered to be introvert or lacking in ambition. They are usually not very materialistic and generally in control of their thoughts. So they understand there is a bigger picture, and they understand that they're basically on a journey based upon working within a different environment. And that anything that traps them here should be avoided, so that they're very aware of who and what they are.

But in both of these cases it's the ego that is the controlling factor in our daily lives, so nobody escapes. The size of the ego actually alludes to the level of control the ego has on us. So, if the ego has control of us, what is it exactly?

The ego is a creation, albeit a temporary creation. It is created as a result of an aspect (soul) of our True Energetic Self (TES – which is sometimes called the Over Soul, the Godhead in Hindu texts or the Higher Self). And that part of it is separated out from the TES, and projected into the lower frequencies associated with our multiversal environment to experience learn and evolve in an accelerated way.

To experience this evolutionary acceleration, the aspect (soul) must enter into the frequencies in the way they are best experienced, as if it were part of them. To do so it needs to associate itself with a vehicle that it can animate energetically. This vehicle is, in our instance, the human form.

(5 min) Notice I said “form” and not “body.” It is classified as the human form, because it uses 10 frequency levels to create it. The first three are the gross physical, the next four are spirituo-physical—the partially energetic condition that makes up the semi-physical/energetic components of the human form, which are sometimes called the “Astral”—and three energetic frequencies that allow the TES to project an aspect of itself, complete with sentience, in an energetic “step down” function, that allows the partial communication between the aspect or the soul and the TES while associated with the lower frequencies that make up the human form.

By the way, for those of you who heard the clock in the background, I apologize for that. It was simply too far away to turn it off before it finished. So that's the thing about recordings for you. Sometimes it's almost live as well. Okay, so let's get back to the ego.

This condition of being in “partial communication,” or almost “zero communication” is what creates the ego. The ego is therefore a condition where the sentience associated with the energies that are the aspect (soul) associate themselves in an isolated or individualized way with the gross physical aspect of the human form, the “body.” They “are” the human body.

If you think of it in terms of all of the air that's in the atmosphere of the Earth being compressed into a small balloon, and then the knot made on the balloon, so that the air inside the balloon stays there, and the air that filled the balloon stays outside. So the larger air that fills the rest of the Earth, the surrounds the Earth is our True Energetic Self, and the air that's inside the balloon is our soul, the aspect. Now there is communication between the two. Or should I say, there is air that eventually escapes through that knot, but very, very slowly, so the balloon will deflate over a long period of time.

And this inability to have the air come in and out of the part of the balloon, that we inflated it through, in a ready and easy way is what creates this lack of communication between the soul or the aspect of the True Energetic Self, and the TES itself. So the amount of air that's able to escape from the balloon is extremely low and limited. And so if you consider that as an information flow, it's extremely limited. If you consider the information flow based upon air flow, when we're trying to blow the balloon up, that's better, but it's still constrained by the diameter of the neck of the balloon itself. We're only able to communicate with our TES or Higher Self properly, when the air, for instance, in the balloon is right outside of the balloon and back into the atmosphere. So it's worth thinking in those terms.

It's also worth thinking in terms of if our TES was the internet, and we as an incarnate aspect are our computer, then if we can normally communicate with the internet by being part of the internet, or have an instantaneous, massively fast broadband, then we're in total communication, and have all the functions associated with that. But if you happen to communicate with the internet with an old modem, that's operating at 1 or 2 kilobytes a second if you're lucky, then you can see that the opportunity to communicate properly is difficult at best.

So this is what creates the ego. The ego is created as a result of this temporary or transient condition. Because of it, it can only exist whilst it's in the human form, or while the human form is operational (or alive), and when we are not self-realized.

And this is an important comment here. The ego is a temporary or transient condition, because it can only exist whilst in the human form, i.e. when the air is in the balloon, and the human form is alive, and when we're not self-realized. That means we have managed to undo the knot of the balloon, and the air is able to pass freely to and fro through the neck of the balloon.

So when the human form demises (dies) it dissolves, although the experiential memories of what we are whilst incarnate are not lost, because they are always transmitted to the TES in parallel with the experience itself. The ego can also be dissolved if we work on our spiritual development and regain contact with our TES or Higher Self. So the ego knows that it's only transient, and it knows that while we're incarnate, its reign or control of us can be reduced or limited or put to one side.

(10 min) And so it does everything it can do in its power to stay in control of us, to stay "alive" for as long as it can, and so it works hard on arresting our spiritual progression. So the ego makes us think in a lower sense that we are the human body. So it keeps us under control in that way, making us think in materialistic ways, in ways that aren't higher frequency.

As incarnate aspects of our TES, our main role is to become spiritually self-realized whilst incarnate, resuming communication with our TES in the process, working in the physical whilst not being of the physical. Therefore, trying to undo the knot in the neck of the balloon.

In this condition there is no room for the ego and it dissolves. The ego knows this and is patient, very sly and very resourceful, and can use convoluted methods to trick and fool us into thinking we have mastered it. It infuses us with feelings of self-consciousness, failure, depression, success, materialism, pride and status. Success and pride are two emotions the ego can use with considerable skill, because we can feel these emotions as a result of being pleased with our spiritual progress and anything else we do.

And, when it uses these things to the best of its ability, we can "think" we are making spiritual progress when in effect we are not. So if you think about it, and you pay attention, you can notice how some of the most spiritual people have the biggest egos! It's because they've lost control of their ego, they've lost control of their humble beginnings, and they start to believe what the ego tells them. And the ego feeds upon the thoughts and processes and verbal communication of others, which back it up as well.

The very moment we think that we have mastered the ego we have lost the battle and the ego is back in control of us and our thoughts, and, we lose some of our spiritual progression as a result. So the best thing to do is stay aware, stay observant by observing yourself in a passive and non-judgmental way, and look for the signs of the ego rising within you, then act upon it and continue your spiritual progression and your goal of becoming self-realized whilst incarnate.

And the best way of doing that is to use something that's called the "observer self." The observer self was taught to me, when I did my Brennan Healing Science work about 15 years ago. It was described in a book called The Undefended Self by Susan Thesenga. The book is still available on Amazon, or ABE Books (www.abebooks.com). I'm not sure if it's in publication now, but it's certainly available on Amazon and ABE Books, and it's very good. It gives you a very old fashioned (now very old fashioned, it was only 15-20 years ago) way of cleaning out your psychospiritual thoughts and functions to eliminate most of the ego. We'll never eliminate all of the ego, and anybody who says they can eliminate the ego is being affected by the ego basically. So we have to be careful with the ego.

Okay, so that's a short lecture on the ego and how it affects our spiritual progression. And please do note that everybody, everybody on this planet has to be careful, and not think that they've mastered the ego, because at the point we think we've mastered it, we've lost control of it again. And that's everybody irrespective of how humble they seem. That even includes the Dalai Lama, and I'm sure he would agree.

Okay, so let's look at the questions we've got, and move forwards at the moment.

Part 2. Questions and Answers

So there's a series of questions here from four different individuals. Three of those individuals were part of the live Satsanga, and I thank them very much for their questions. But there were held in abeyance from the last time, because we ran out of time. So the first question is:

1. People seem very impatient around the world now, and there's more and more violence and crazy. It seems that this is due to the low frequencies of the people at first, but I suspect (just a wild thought) maybe it's also due to the rise of the background base frequency of the Earth, of our universe. And those other beings with lower frequencies, not managing to raise their own frequencies, and they feel very annoyed and uncomfortable. And thus, we have to take something into action just to release the imbalanced energy inside them. Or maybe certain low frequency spirits feel uncomfortable, and people with similar frequencies get affected by it?

(15 min) So in effect, this is suggesting that there's an observation, and this is quite a good observation, because it's happening all over the world, that we are spotting and seeing more low frequency thoughts, behaviors and actions. And this particular question poses two particular responses:

- (1) Is it due to an overall frequential drop? and
- (2) Is it because those around us are evolving and ascending the frequencies, and therefore, the interactive frequencies between individuals are becoming more and more out of phase, and therefore, are causing a level of discomfort, which results in anger and frustration with those who aren't moving up, because ultimately they know that they should be doing the same thing?

And the answer is both are correct. In essence, we are experiencing more lower frequency things, or observing them, because we are moving up collectively up the frequencies.

And although we are and have been for last sort of 9 months, I'm being told, having a downward trough, so to speak, in frequency all over the world, there are still a number of people, who are still able to move upwards. And this, if you like, causes a little bit of an issue, because as you move upwards, we start to pay more attention to these acts of atrocity, for instance, and poor thoughts, and poor actions, and poor behaviors.

And so the understanding or ability to observe things becomes more prominent, becomes more obvious, and therefore, the gap between the people in the lower frequencies vs. the people in the higher frequencies again becomes bigger and bigger and bigger as well.

And so when we interact with people of lower frequencies, we tend to get ignored, if we're higher frequency that is. We tend to get ignored, because we are higher frequency, and therefore, they can't perceive us. The human eyes, the physical eyes also work in conjunction with the third eye, the spiritual eye. And so what is not being perceived is because of the frequency that we work on, isn't also visualized or seen by the human eyes, the physical eyes as well.

And so therefore, if we do communicate with somebody, they automatically pick up our higher frequency and become annoyed. And the annoyance is because of the disharmony in frequencies basically. But it's also in the background, it's the ego struggling to keep them low frequency, of course. And also on the other side, they ultimately know that they should be doing the best they can do to rise up the frequencies, so that's why they become annoyed as well. So it's a function of those things.

The second part of this is: It may be through this that the whole earth is going to split into two or more event spaces: one with a critical mass which manages raise the frequencies high enough, and that's the world that is populated with mainly higher frequency people, and the other without such change.

So this is basically going through the Dolores Cannon "New Earth" type of scenario, where there's two versions of the Earth. One is a higher frequency, where those who are working in a more spiritual way do rise up in the frequencies and become part of that particular environment.

Whereas those others who haven't taken the opportunity to progress have stayed in the lower frequency, and therefore, the environment upon Earth that's of a lower frequency is occupied by them. And the higher one can interface with the lower one, but the lower one can't interface with the higher one. And this is also what's happening as well.

And there is another question in a moment, which links into this, which talks about backfill people, and the balances created by backfill people to ensure that those individuals who stay on this particular level, the older level, don't feel that they're seeing the whole world being depopulated. But nevertheless, these people are in the background, they're backfill, and they provide a balance for us. And they also benefit from it as well, even though they're not the same genre of soul, so to speak.

So the Earth will ultimately split into more than two. Right now it's based upon the first three frequencies, which are the gross physical. And the next level, the second Earth is in the fourth frequency, which is sort of the lower astral.

(20 min) The fifth frequency is the upper lower astral. The sixth frequency is the lower upper astral, and the seventh frequency is the upper astral. And so the Earth will move through these along with the eighth, ninth, tenth, eleventh, and twelfth. But because it's polyfrequential, the Earth will also (I apologize for my coughing there, I had a frog in my throat).

Because the Earth is panfrequential, it exists in all of these frequencies anyway concurrently. So as we move up them, we will be able to experience and work with that which is represented on those frequencies. So as we move up these frequencies, we can see down below the frequencies, so we can always work with those who are below us. But we still can't see those that are above us, because we're lower frequency than them.

So eventually there's going to be around, if we think about it, there will be 10 Earths, 9 of which could be classified as New Earths, but they'll be progressive New Earths. That's the subject of another lecture I have no doubt, which we can go into some detail with. But it explains in essence the Dolores Cannon theory, and how it can be projected forwards into the understanding that I have as well.

So the next question comes from the most western part of the world.

2. On page 87 of Beyond the Source—Book 1, when discussing being drawn back into the physical, Source Entity One explains that those of lower frequency are indeed fighting back.

And there's sort of 5 questions to this:

(1) Does this explain the situation referenced in the last Newsletter about us dropping down?

Yeah, my last Newsletter in this particular instance, which would have been in August 2016, describes that fact, that we are experiencing some level of resistance to going up the frequencies. And those individuals who are of a lower frequency are sort of fighting back, if you want to call it that, and they are fighting back only insomuch as they're getting more and more frustrated, and therefore, have feelings of anger as a result of experiencing higher frequencies around them, and those entities as well that are higher frequency as well.

(2) Who exactly are these beings?

So the beings are basically us. They're basically us. They are souls of a lower evolutionary level, who are more, shall we say, immersed in their incarnation than those who are working at a higher level. So they're not unseen spirit beings, which is the next question.

(3) Are they unseen spirit beings intent on preventing the ascension of us from this Earth?

The answer is no. It's basically us. It's us burning our own cake, so to speak.

(4) Do we just ignore them, and attempt to focus on spiritual things?

The answer is yes. We can try to help them, if you wish. We can try to educate them, but they won't accept it. One or two may take the education to a certain level, but then will not go any further. So the answer to that question is: Do we help them?

The best thing we can do is be of service when we can, sense their limitations without ego, and work within those limitations. And just send them love, even if it's a terrorist, send them love. That increases their frequency and will start to help them move in an upward spiral rather than a downward spiral. So this is the thing to do is just to send them love, send them well-beings, and don't be angry towards them, because that just perpetuates their own energies.

(5) Will they ever not be here working for their ends?

The answer is yes, they will also evolve at some point, and they'll also progress through the frequencies at some point as well.

And this is important to note, that we shouldn't become egotistical, so to speak, about our own position, about us thinking that we're more evolved than somebody else. I mean we're all here to do a job, and that's to experience, learn and evolve in the way that we are doing it. And there's no rules, other than the way we want to do it ourselves. We give ourselves some level of guidance, we ask other entities to guide us in what we're achieving.

(25 min) But the most important thing is to recognize that people are doing it in their own way. And they will get there. As surely as we get there, they will also get there. And so it's important to think of it in that way. And the final question is:

(6) When I was discussing getting started on The Anne Dialogues (and another plug here: it will be available at the end of October 2016), which stated here as discussing The Origin Speaks, the issue is time. She says we have a lot of work to do, and not a lot of time. The question is in what sense is this true?

And the comment is that Anne now has all the time in the world. And I hope that I still have all the time in the world to write and help humanity along the way as well.

Thank you for asking that question. So to back that up, the comment is from Source Entity that says there are no time constraints. There is no time constraints. There is only ability and availability, if you want to call it that, to communicate in the way we can.

(25 min) "And not a lot of time" is basically because Anne needed to move on and reacquaint with her True Energetic Self. So working with me in her case was sort of holding her back a little bit. Although she could have communicated with me from the state of any form of communion, that didn't involve full communion with her TES, it was better for her and easier for her, and for me as well to have her in some of the frequencies, that were sort of closer to the incarnate frequencies. And the amount of her own availability meant that she used a human term "And not a lot of time."

And of course, my own sort of longevity here, although I think I understand how long I'm supposed to be here, might not be what I think it is, because sometimes there is the odd curveball, the odd wild card, given to us. And sometimes our TES decides that we've done enough and it is time to go. And so my own thoughts of my longevity might be in error. That may well be there to help me focus on getting things done without worrying about how much time I've got left.

So it could be a case of also there's a combination there of how much of her own work she has to do, and therefore, what she can spare to work with me, aligned with how long my incarnation has to last. So time doesn't exist at all. It's just the window of opportunity that's available for her to work with me before she moves back into a state of whatever state of communion that she's agreed to have or is having with her TES. So I hope that answers that question.

And I hope I am here long enough to finish what I'm told is 12 books. I'm working on the seventh right now, and I'm 3850 words into it. So we'll see how it will go. I'm expecting to finish the twelfth book by the time I'm 65, so I've got 10 years to go, at least I hope.

And before you ask the question, listeners, no, I don't know anything about myself. That would be too easy. Everybody has to go through the maze blindfolded, I'm afraid. It's part of the rules and regulations of being incarnate. Well, let's not say rules and regulations, there are no rules and regulations. It's simply a function of the frequencies being here.

So the next question is based upon the integration of the energies associated with the body.

3. Where does the ego sit in our body?

(1) You said it's right behind the heart chakra, so is it within or near our soul seat? Others say the ego is programming or a mental construct, like our "3D" mind that believes in separation, lack and limitation? Please explain.

Well, the ego...because the ego is a construct, it's created as a function of separation, near total separation, it exists in the same place as the sentience. And the sentience sits in the soul seat. So the ego and the sentience are in the same place. They're one and the same thing. It's just that the ego is a function of the sentience through lack of communication and lack of connectivity believing that the human body is what it is.

(30 min) It starts to think of itself as an individualized being. And that personality, if you want to call it that, that is created as a result of this individualization or near total individualization, is what creates or is what the ego is basically. So it's our personality.

Although it's got a level of intelligence, the subconscious—if you want to call it that, although some people might disagree with that description—the subconscious is the part that drives the ego. The personality is what you see in front of you, when you speak to somebody that's incarnate. But the ultimate ego is both the personality that you see and work with, and the subconscious as well. Not the Higher Self, that's a completely different thing altogether.

(2) Is the ego's function limited to the lower 3 chakras, which makes it identify with the gross physical form? Or is the soul (sentience) animating all 10 chakras regardless of the ego?

In essence, the ego's function is limited to the sentience and its connectivity to the human form. And so we can actually disregard the higher three energies, the 8th, 9th and 10th energy. And it seems to be able to, it seems to be limited to the first 7, so the gross physical and spirituo-physical, because those are the energies that animate the human form.

The other three, the 8th, 9th and 10th, are simply a step-down function that allows the energies to move down through the frequencies in a coherent way, which allows or maintains some level of connectivity, but not enough to create the communication between the projected soul or aspect and the TES.

(3) Where does our sentience sit in our body?

The same place, it's in the soul seat (which is in the midpoint in between the front and the rear heart chakras).

(4) You said it is held in the soul seat, but in the last meditation you said it's behind the third eye point in our head? Please explain.

That's a misunderstanding. That's a human condition. We think of ourselves as sitting in our head, because we look through our eyes, we speak through our mouth, we breathe through our nose, we listen through our ears. The senses, or four of the senses that we use are in the head, the higher part of the body. So we think of ourselves, our intelligence, our sentience as being in the head, and it's not.

The sentience is in the soul seat, which is in the midpoint in between the front and the rear heart chakras. So the location of the sentience and the ego is the same place. It's just that we relate to ourselves as being in the head beyond the third eye, so that's a slight misunderstanding there.

(5) Is our individualized free will the result of poor communication with our True Energetic Self (vertical) OR poor collective consciousness with other humans (horizontal)?

The answer to that is it's part of it, but it's not all of it. Individualized free will is something that we're given as a function of the allowable functionality of the incarnate vehicle and the soul that integrates with it. Generally, most incarnate vehicles throughout the physical universe are operating in some form of collective consciousness. And there's various different forms of collective consciousness, various different forms of integration, and that's explained in, I think, in both The Origin Speaks and The Anne Dialogues.

But in essence, we have individualized free will as a function of what's being allowed for us to have. Clearly, because we become individualized, so to speak, as a function of the lower frequencies. When we incarnate into a vehicle that's lower frequency, that augments that free will, because we're not thinking in terms of everybody else. We're thinking in terms of ourselves.

Notice that when we work with other beings, and they're higher frequency and we're higher frequency, we start to think of each other collectively. We work for each other. We are of service to each other. That's thinking in a more collective way.

(35 min) So you can say that in some way, shape or form, that as we evolve, we think more collectively than we do as individuals. So that's a bit of a clue there, because we are actually a collection of individualized sentient energies that are separated away from our creator, the Source. So that should help answer that question.

(6) How is individualized free will going to be given to other entities higher up in the physical universe, when they already have more connectivity with their collective and their TES? How does it really work for us and them at higher frequencies?

Well, basically I've just explained that, because the higher up the frequencies we go, we collectively have our own free will, and we have individually our own free will. But as we become more evolved through work in higher frequencies, we tend—I'm being told not tend but generally and more often than not, unless there is a specific piece of experience we need to have—we tend to work together rather than individually.

Working individually and having sort of individual will to the detriment of others is based upon separation. It's based upon being disconnected. But when we move up the frequencies, we become more connected, and we start to realize who and what we are. We start to realize we're part of a much bigger collection of entities, much bigger being as a collection of entities. So we start to work in this collective sense. We start to be of service to people. We start to think of others before ourselves. We lay our own lives down before others as well.

So this is what happens. So even though in the rest of the higher frequencies of the physical universe there are entities that are, clearly have their own free will, they don't use it that way. They use it as a collective sense.

But one statement that I will make is that the entities that we would be involved with here, that are basically operating in the same frequencies, the first three and maybe the fourth, are the ones that are definitely not given free will. They're operating in a collective sense, because you can see how destructive free will can be, if used incorrectly. And it takes a long time to reverse the trend of being selfish and materialistic and antagonistic and medieval, so to speak. It takes a long time. But those entities that are higher up the frequencies, 7th, 8th and 9th frequency, even though they have free will, they all operate collectively, because that's what they are. We're ultimately a collection of sentience that's been given individuality for a moment. Okay, so that's a good question. And the last one we do have time I feel to look at the last question. Yes, we do.

4. I'd like to ask the Source Entity some questions about the next American election.

(1) If he agrees that Donald Trump, for instance, is the right contender for president at this time, as there is lots of chaos and bad evil around the world?

Okay, there's a lot of sort of nested questions there, so I'm going to ask that question first. I'll just link in with Source first.

And the response is we should be mature enough now to be able to recognize that we need leaders, who are thinking for us and about us rather than for themselves. So irrespective of who the contenders are for a presidency, and this is for any presidency, not particularly American presidency.

If we see how one of those contenders is operating, then we don't vote for them. This is a collective function, and it's all to do with choice. It's giving us the opportunity to make the right choice, to go down the right road, to take the right event space and the right event stream.

We talk about event streams in the 7th book, the book that's called The Curators. I almost forgot my own book title and that's not very good, is it? It's called The Curators. And we talk about event streams in The Curators, okay. But it's all about choosing the right event stream. And it's serious, but it doesn't matter.

Source gives us everything, even evil as a function of choice. If we choose evil, then we need to experience it, and so I said before. But in the other sense, it's that we've got the chance not to choose evil. And if we choose evil, it may be that we need to come back and unchoose it later, or choose another route later, another incarnation, because evil is ultimately a function of lower frequency thoughts, behaviors and actions.

(40 min) Whereas if we chose somebody to be a president, who is thinking of the collective population of the States, for instance, or the rest of the world, and the ultimate heritage of us as incarnate individuals, and what we're leaving for other incarnate individuals to work with, then we will not vote for that individual. So it's immaterial in that sense.

That one individual has no power over us, only what we give it over us. So if we want him to lead us, we will vote for him. Does that make sense? It's about our choice. We're given opportunities: the right road, the wrong road, the best road, the slower road. So it's up to us to make the right choice. We can't blame anybody else. It's our choice. And the next part is:

(2) The group ISIS say they are killing in the name of you, that's God. I feel sorry for all the people with all the earthquakes and flooding, etc. happening and left without feeling safe.

So the first bit about ISIS is that again everything that happens around us is a function of, a waypoint, a marker showing us how we shouldn't work. And as we start to reject these ways of working, reject terrorism, reject individuality, reject materialism, reject egotistic [behavior] and egotism, and become more aligned with working together, and loving and caring and sharing in a progressive way, then we'll reject all these sorts of things.

And then things like terrorism will burn out. It can't survive in an environment where at the end of the day everybody rejects it. Terrorism works upon people wanting something to happen. And the terrorists themselves feeding on that lower frequency energy work with it to project it, but at the end of the day, they're only doing God's work as well. God is giving us an example of how not to be.

It's up to us to choose whether we are that which we're not supposed to be or if we choose the right way. We are ultimately in control of our own destiny, free will. But our destiny is together, not separate. So again, we can send love to these people. We can send positive thoughts and actions, and hope that they themselves also come out of their downward spiral.

(3) Yeah, again earthquakes and flooding, etc.?

All these natural things are again a way of getting us all to think together in a caring and sharing and loving way. Sending people care packages, sending people assistance, help, giving them shelter, sending them love. And if they've lost their family, asking them to join your family. All of these different things are all part of the things that occur when we're thinking in a higher frequency.

If we're thinking of lower frequency, we just think: Oh, that person's in an earthquake. Tough. That person's in a flood. Hmm, wrong place, wrong time. You know, those sorts of things. But when we're thinking in the right way, we think: Ahh, those people in an earthquake, let's send them what we can financially. If we haven't got it financially, let's send them love, let's send them both anyway. And the same with flooding.

So it's all to do with the thought process that we work with, and how we progress. It's all to do with giving us opportunities, they're little milestones, little waypoints, little marker points to help us think in a collective way. Again with all this stuff though, we have to be careful that we don't invoke the ego, because there are individuals who use it through egotistical purposes, and not for the general sort of purpose. They put themselves on a pedestal in some way. So it has to be done in a selfless way, a way which is totally of service.

(45 min) Another part of the question is CERN. That's the location in Switzerland, where they've got the Large Hadron Collider.

(4) Is CERN safe for our scientists to find out how certain things of the solar planets, for instance, on how to create dark matter and the God particle? What are they made of? Are they messing around with nature? Opening portals for other entities to come through? Are there things like lots of armies of entities going to come through these things and help us fight the evil?

Let's get back to the CERN part first. Dark matter doesn't exist. Dark matter is a word that mankind has used to try and give a name to something that they know is in the universe. They know that the universe is connected. But all they can see in between the bright spots—bright spots being galaxies and in between the bright spots within the galaxies are the stars—is darkness. And that's because they're not seeing the next frequency level. And then at the next frequency level, they're not seeing the next frequency level.

So when we start to see all those frequency levels, we'd start to see that actually there is no dark matter as such. There is only more content. So the higher up the frequencies we get, we see more content.

And this is the same as being at street level in the city. In the street level in a city, you can only see the road in front of you and behind you, and maybe to the sides if you're lucky. If you walk up the fire escape of a building, you can see above the heads of those individuals who you couldn't see by in those roads, and you see further on in the road. You see for maybe a mile forwards and backwards, whereas previously you could see maybe a 100 meters.

If you go to the roof of a small building, you might see a few other small buildings. You start to see the infrastructure of the streets. If you go to another higher building, you start to see more infrastructure. You can see how big the city is, where it's going to the parks, the skyscrapers, the office blocks, the residential areas. And so we start to see more and more and more.

That's the same thing with frequencies. The higher up the frequencies we are, we see more of the content of the universe that is there. It's just that not all of it is on our frequency. And because not all of it is on our frequency, we haven't got the capacity to create machines that allow us to see things on the frequencies that are higher. Eventually we will do, as we rise up the frequencies. So there's no such thing as dark matter.

And as for the God particle? Well, everything is the God particle. Everything around us is God. There is nothing that is not God, whether it's a cell, whether it's a wooden table, whether it's the atoms in the table, whether it's the electrons, the quarks, stranges, and charm, whether it's right down to the Anu, it's all God. So everything is God.

There is nothing that can be classified as saying this particular item is a God particle, this particular item is the building block. It's impossible, because it's all. Everything is in every stage of gross physicality and frequency and dimension and zone and continuum and everything else that's associated with the structure of our Source, not particularly the structure of our multiverse, everything is our Source. So there's nothing that isn't.

So a God particle will never be found, because there is no such thing, because everything is. If they look at themselves, they'll realize they themselves are the God particle. The CERN Large Hadron Collider itself is the God particle. They're not messing around with nature. In fact, actually my understanding of what I've been given about the Large Hadron Collider is it will never work. It will never achieve what they want to achieve, because it's pushing. It is trying to crack a walnut with a sledge hammer. The more they push, the more resistance they get.

The faster a boat goes, it never overtakes its own bow wave, because it just creates a bigger bow wave. The faster they try to go, the less they can go faster. It's all to do with understanding. When we understand the energetic side of things properly, we'll realize that it doesn't even take the power of small flashlight battery to flick through the different frequencies, and through the different dimensions. It doesn't take a huge, miles long particle accelerator to achieve it. It just needs the right understanding, the right evolutionary level, technology, if you want to use it at some point, but afterwards we can do it ourselves. We can mentally project ourselves to these different places. And the last question is:

(5) Do I see a host of armies come down to help us fight the evil? Or take us off the planet if we have catastrophes or death?

The answer is there are already entities here that are operating at a different frequential level than the gross physical aspect of the human form. And so when we evolve, and we ascend the frequencies, we will see in actual fact that these entities are already here. So they will not come down or appear or travel in ships. They're already here.

It's just that people who are able to work with them do work with them. And people that are unaware of them, because of their limited perception (perceptual range due to their own evolutionary level and lack of frequency) don't see them. So we will be in effect left around devices, because that's the way we learn.

(50 min) And if we go through another civilization before we get to the ultimate aim of being able to work collectively properly, then that will be what's happening. It's just up to us. We need to collectively make the right decision whilst we are individual. We need to work separately together to make us work in the right way. And when we work in the right way, we will ascend the frequencies, and we will accelerate.

Because when we start to do it properly, we'll really accelerate through the frequencies. And so our evolutionary level and our connectivity with our True Energetic Self will become more coherent. And therefore, the ego will disappear as well, because we'll be communicating and working as if we are our TES, and not an isolated and near totally separated smaller aspect of that TES.

Okay, well, that's all the questions. I'm really pleased we managed to get through them. I'm just going to check the time. And we've got enough time to do the meditation, which is fantastic.

Part 3. Meditation

(51 min) So this meditation is working on How to be in connectivity with all of the individuals on the Earth. Please download the high quality M4A File audio file to do the guided meditation with Guy Steven Needler via his website or blog.

(70 min) Closing comments: Thank you very much for participating in this Satsanga, listening to it, downloading it, passing it on to friends, putting it on YouTube, whatever you want to do.

Please feel free to move it around. All I wish or ask you to do is reference it to Guy Needler and www.beyondthesource.com, and of course, reference it to Kevin Moore of The Moore Show.

Thank you very much everybody. I send you God's love and my love as well, and blessings to you all. I look forward to connecting with you energetically in October, which will be October 22nd. That's a Saturday again in 2016. Namaste and goodbye." END.
