

March 28, 2020 - Pre-Recorded World Satsanga for The Kevin Moore Show

Transcript of Pre-Recorded World Satsanga by Guy Steven Needler:

"Welcome everybody to this World Satsanga on the 28th of March 2020 and I'd like to thank Kevin for his continued work. He's doing some fantastic work with his YouTube show that's called "They Call Them Channelers." So it's interesting to see those different types and different levels of ability and different levels of what they think they can do vs. what they can actually do. So it's brilliant. It's not showing individuals who are really good channelers, it's showing the whole spectrum of what you can consider to be high level vs. low level, so Kevin's doing a fantastic job there.

Just to let you know that we've changed the whole agenda as a result of the things that are happening worldwide arena right now. So the agenda that we had for March will now be pushed on to April, provided things are going in the way that I feel that they will go. So we need to just put those questions to one side, although the questions we're having for this March, we'll use now. But in terms of the meditation and the lecture that I had in mind for March, that'll go into April now.

What I plan to do now is I'm going to go through the questions as announced. But first of all I'm going to give a lecture as to what's going on in the world, what my understanding is, and then we'll go through the questions. And then at the end we'll go through the way in which we can help ourselves become higher frequency and then drastically reduce the chances of succumbing to this new particular, sometimes aggressive, sometimes completely benign virus that's flying around the world right now.

Well, it's really quite interesting, because there's a couple of questions that actually lead into this particular talk. And I'll do those questions first, because it makes sense to do so. This is from somebody who's remained anonymous and there's three questions here. And I think the third question we can put to the end, because that'll be part of the meditation we do at the end of this particular presentation. But here we go.

Part 1. Lecture on "What's going on in the world?"

Well, it's really quite interesting, because there's a couple of questions that actually lead into this particular talk. And I'll do those questions first, because it makes sense to do so. This is from somebody who's remained anonymous and there's three questions here. And I think the third question we can put to the end, because that'll be part of the meditation we do at the end of this particular presentation. But here we go.

Question: There are so many chaoses happening recently, such as the big fire in Australia, the plague of locusts in Africa, the upgraded danger of possible military conflict in Iran due to the assassination of the Iran general, and the coronavirus epidemic outbreak in China. (Anonymous)

- Why does this chaos happen so intensively in the beginning of 2020 worldwide?
- Is there any more good things which are going to happen in the future?
- How can we prepare ourselves spiritually in our ordinary life for the more turbulent world to come?
- How can we better use the Psychic Shield to protect ourselves against the virus?

What we're going to do is put the Psychic Shield at the end, so to speak, although I'm not going to a particular psychic shield but I can describe what people can do for their psychic shields, if they've bought the Psychic Shield. And I'm going to go through a different sort of meditation to allow us to become more, shall we say, "less sticky" so to speak, for the virus to stick to.

So that question is quite interesting and there's also another question submitted by somebody else, who goes into a similar sort of thing right at the very end about the Law of Manifestation, and this is context of people who die from Coronavirus. So what I'm going to do is I'll leave that question, because it's a bit more focused on something to do with prearranged or preorganized planning for our incarnation that's part of our life plan. So we'll deal with that later.

So what is really happening, I mean across the world, we've had conflict, significant conflict. We've had governmental incompetence from our leaders in various different locations. We've had floods. We've had drought. We've had fire, I mean, floods around the UK and northern Europe, severe weather systems. The fires in Australia have been the worst, I think, on record. And we've had this massive cloud or, should I say, swarm of locusts that have gone through Africa and destroyed the crops and lots of different areas within the African land mass.

And then we've got the Coronavirus, which is proving to be...although it's a derivative of, you could think of it in terms of this...it's a derivative of what we call probably SARS or the common cold or influenza or even pneumonia, you know. All these things are quite linked together, because the way in which the human body has been responding is showing similar symptoms to things like the flu virus or pneumonia or a severe cold, but they are working in different ways. It seems to me that it's targeting or is very quickly able to target weaknesses within the human body. And those weaknesses are being taken advantage of by this particular virus. So you could almost say it's a "smart virus" or a very cunning virus.

(5 min) But on top of that, we've got the potential for famine as well with everybody panicking about needing to get supplies into the house, like fruit and vegetables, canned produce, sanitary products, bread, meat, and other things, such as fuels. We're placing ourselves, we're putting ourselves into a famine based potential situation. At the end of the day, if we don't panic, because there's always going to be somebody who's allowed to go to a shop or a supermarket to get the vital essentials that we need to exist, then there will be enough for everybody. So we're putting ourselves in a famine based situation.

If you look at it all, you've got flood, drought, fire, plague of locusts, pestilence, which is corona, and famine, you've got everything there, which has been specified in the Bible and other religious texts that have happened in the past, because we haven't been looking at how we're dealing with ourselves around the world, how we're managing ourselves. As I said, we've got governmental incompetence, not just in the UK or in the United States, but we've had it in some of the African countries as well. You know, people hanging onto power too long, thinking they can do what they want to do, thinking of themselves rather than the general populace that's put them there to govern them. But obviously, they've reneged on that particular agreement.

So what we're getting now is the Earth fighting back. We're getting the Earth's weather system changing for a number of different reasons. One of them is that the Earth's moved on its axis a couple of degrees, which is normal, but there are weather system changes associated with that. We've also got the potential for the pole shifts happening quite soon, and the pole shift is a natural phenomenon, which has been observed by scientists. And there's evidence to prove that. And certainly, Yellowstone Park is one of the areas where there's been minor earthquakes, minor lava flows, and as a result of that, they've managed to measure the magnetic field around certain parts of the Earth in that area, and you can see that over a period of about 12,500 to 13,000 years, things change. And the magnetic poles of these areas of Earth have changed from north to south to south to north, so that's going to affect us as well. And it will affect the weather.

My understanding is that we're coming out of a minor Ice Age anyway, so you've got weather changes associated with the change in temperature. And that's a result of the changes in the Earth's mantle moving around potentially and becoming the next change in the pole shift. And then we've got the change in the axis of the Earth anyway, which is putting some parts of the Earth, the poles, or one of the poles at least closer to the Sun. So you've got all these weather system changes as well, which is causing all sorts of stuff.

So you've got lots of things happening concurrently. But at the end of the day, all these things are happening because of one thing: Mankind not being mature enough to govern itself properly with the level of power that's being given right now. So everything that's happening, which is all those fires, droughts, floods, plagues of locusts, the coronavirus and the potential famine that we'll put ourselves into, if we're not careful, are basically there to wake us up.

Go back a whole bunch of thousands of years and you've got a similar thing happening with other civilizations — certainly it was seen in Egypt. And it was definitely seen in Atlantis and it was definitely seen in the Sumerian period before then and it was seen in other civilizations before the Sumerian period. So all of these things are warning signs. They're warning signs for us to pay attention to say that we think we're in control, but we're not. And if we're not in control of ourselves, then other forces will come along that will cause us to have a reboot, a restart. In computer speak, we call it a Control-Alt-Delete or start again.

So we are being given lots of different warning signs that we're potentially putting ourselves in a position of, I'm not going to say extinction, but of a complete change again — the sort of change that happened instantaneously at the end of the Atlantean period, and instantaneously created because of the different entities that are looking after and ruling and governing the Earth in its individualized free will opportunity to create the Egyptian society and the smaller societies around it.

(10 min) So the entities are looking at us, who...you know, we work with these entities, when we disincarnate normally. And the whole point of being on Earth right now is that we can see how our individualized free will can benefit us and how it can accelerate our evolution. But right now our individualized free will is causing nothing but self-centeredness, objective materialism and don't-care-lessness. That's not very good English, is it? But at the end of the day, the whole, all of these thought processes, all these states of being, all of these different ways in which we interact with others are causing us to be completely immature, drop away from the frequencies we were.

We went through a fantastic stage, just after the 1960s and 1970s, where we were starting to understand that there was more to existence than the material worth. You know, the Second World War made a big difference and the Korean War made a big difference, so we were starting to come out this sort of almost medieval thinking process. And then right up until about a year and half ago, two years ago, we were looking very good. Everything was becoming transparent, and people were working together in a more objective, collective way. Then all of a sudden, a couple of leaders came to power and it became very personally "couldn't care less as long as I'm okay" sort of mentality.

And those individuals, who are lower frequency and backfill people, for instance, and therefore, lower intelligence or lower levels of evolutionary content, latch onto this and everything drops down very, very quickly. So this idea of my thoughts and feelings were that we were going to come out the other side and I still think we will, we're only going to come out the other side now as a result of this virus. So all the other things that are happening: Fire is bringing us together, droughts bringing us together, floods are bringing us together. The locusts are bringing us together, because we've lost crops. Coronavirus is bringing us together, working together on a global basis, because the others were only localized. And the localized famines would also cause us to work together, because we're going to realize if we don't behave ourselves, then nobody will have anything — not just the few who manage to rape and pillage the shelves of local supermarkets, etc.

So all of this is going to make us think about how we interact with ourselves and others. And we will come out the other side, but we need to start acting in a reasonable and responsible way. Now certain governments have got ideas on how we can work with this particular virus, for instance, and that we should isolate ourselves until it passes by. Well, these are good ideas and bad ideas, because at the end of the day, the governments aren't understanding what happens with those individuals who get over it. People are saying they've got it, but there's no checks to see if they have got it. They could have the standard severe cold or a mild flu condition.

So nobody knows really properly how many people actually have really got it, whether when they get over it, they can still pass it on. And we know that from the Chinese that the people who have got over it can in fact get reinfected, so we know it's morphing. So there's not the right level of research in the right areas from what I can see, I'm fairly sure it's happening somewhere, but it's not being espoused in the media to identify what the morphology or genealogy or whatever this virus is doing. So we need to understand that can people who had it pass it on still? People think it's the same as the cold — if you got a cold, you can pass it on and when you finish the cold, you can't pass it on. Maybe you can pass it on? So maybe the whole point of it is really that we need to get it, get over it and then move on.

But right now they're thinking of creating what they call "herd immunity," which means that we all isolate ourselves and it burns out, which is one way of doing it. But if you look across history, things like the bubonic plague, I can't remember the actual figures now, but it must be something like between 40-50% of the world actually died through the bubonic plague or what I can remember. It was a good number. I'll just have to quickly check. Yeah, they're saying over the period of time that the bubonic plague was flying around the Earth in the 14th century, around 60% of the Earth's population succumbed to it.

(15 min) I mean the average is around 45%, because they're saying in between 30-60%, because there wasn't any real way of recording it properly, because other people died of other things, not particularly the plague. But it was all attributed to the plague. So if we don't do it properly, we could end up being in a similar situation. But again it looks to me as if what it's doing is it's looking for the weakness in people's either genealogy or whether people have lost their immune response that they have in the body naturally, because they are old or frail, for instance, or they have underlying things.

So be vigilant. Be high frequency, because this is another way in which we're being told we're doing it wrong. We're managing ourselves wrong. We're interacting with each other wrong. We're damaging our environment, so we're being told to stop, think, behave and act correctly, nurture ourselves, nurture the Earth and start to think of ourselves as a world population rather than little populations on different islands or continents or land masses. So think of it in terms of we've been given 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 warnings and we're about to get 6th that we have to behave ourselves, become more mature, reject ineffective management of ourselves. Become more mature in how we interact with each other. Become more caring and loving in how we interact with each other. Become more caring and loving in how we interact with our environment and those other things within it, the flora and fauna located in that environment.

Okay, so that's what's going on. We're being given a big warning, a number of different warnings and we need to sit up and pay attention. And it's not an End of the World notice, although it could be, if we don't behave ourselves. And I feel we will do. I feel we're going to change. I mean, if you think about a number of different Satsangas we've had where some people have asked different questions, one of the answers I've given is the only way we get together and one of the ways we do get together is when we're all in a crisis. And one of those ways we work together well is in war, for instance, or plague. And right now we're in a plague situation, so we're at war with a particular virus.

So that's the only time we start to work together properly, when we're all threatened. When we're at war globally, we're all threatened locally and from a country base as well. When we've got a problem with the environment, we have to work together, if it's a serious condition. If we have a problem with our health, because there's something flying around, some virus or some condition that's flying around, which is reducing our population dramatically or drastically or showing the potential to do so, we need to work together. So we're all being told to work together and to reject our petty requirements, our desires to have material wealth, status, you know, being better than somebody else, and being selfish. We need to reject all of this and start again.

Okay, so a little bit of a rant, but that's what I've been picking up. And we really do need to sit up and take notice, because we really have had a number of different warnings and we're about to have another warning as well. And when we have the famine warning coming along, and you can see it, things are going to start to fall apart. Because although we might even go into some forms of military rules, so to speak, to try to keep things in perspective, at the end of the day, people not being able to feed themselves is the biggest issue we might have. It'll end up being above and beyond that issue that we've got with this virus.

Okay, so the questions then. And the first three questions linked into this quite nicely and the very last one we'll go into it as well as part of how we can protect ourselves. So in between then we've got the normal questions fantastically. And it's actually good to have a little bit of a let's calm down and see what's going on in the bigger picture. And JM has given us some wonderful questions from reading some of the "Beyond the Source" books and I thank JM for this. It's a nice thing to settle back into when there's all worldwide concern, panic and feeling of not being able to do anything about anything. So the first question is from SE5 from Beyond the Source, Book 2. It says...

Part 2. Questions and Answers

1. From SE 5 in "Beyond The Source" Book 2: "No one entity will be tied to the Source Entity that created it. They will all be free of the ties of their original environment. They will be equals with the Source Entities and the Origin, all within the Origin." (JM)

- This seems so far off that I can't conceive of it actually happening. Does this reading teach that I or my TES will be equal to the Origin, indeed that every TES will be? How can this be?

(20 min) Well, this is a comment I've done at the end of the first big group of evolutionary cycles that we'll go through, that allows the Origin to go from this current area of polyomniscient polysentient area of sentience and self-awareness, the first group of twelve levels of structure into the second group of twelve levels of structure, where everybody's TES [True Energetic Self/

Higher Self/Oversoul/Godhead], if they're part of a Source Entity and the Source Entity feels that that TES has been of service in the right ways and I don't see any TES that won't be, to be honest, because every TES is evolving through the use of its aspects and shards.

Then that next set or second set of twelve levels of structure will be so massively vast, in comparison to the first set of twelve, that there will need to be many, many entities that are of Source Entity level to be able to map it out and help the Origin become more than it is. And in doing so, the statement "we'll all be equal to Origin" is sort of true — it's not quite true, but it's sort of true, because we'll be able to be closer to the Origin.

As we become bigger entities as a result of our own evolution, and our True Energetic Selves gain Source Entity status, we become significantly more than we were, and therefore, our evolutionary content has the capability of becoming much more than it was. So we start to become a larger evolutionary sentient being, or I should say entity, to let me make my nomenclature right. As a result of that, we become much bigger than we are. So we become more like the Origin, because we're closer to the Origin, because we've got a different level of status. So this is like so far out into a different event space that it is almost inconceivable to be able to understand it and recognize that it's going to happen. But it will happen and it has happened, if you think about it — if you look at event space being everything happening concurrently. So it's just a matter of understanding what we'll go to.

And the book, "Beyond the Origin," I am feeling a little bit about the Om that I'm writing now, will discuss some of this and help us to understand a bit more about the further projection of the Origin's structure, and what that means to us in terms of what's going to happen later. So when the book "Beyond the Origin" comes out, we'll be able to start to understand a bit more about that particular statement that JM has quoted of. Very good statement. It will happen and actually, as we move through our evolution, our evolutionary cycles get faster and faster and faster. So although it seems a long way away, actually the more evolutionary cycles we do, the faster those evolutionary cycles happen, the faster it happens, so it's not as far away as one would think. It's just that when we think of it in terms of human terms in a linear way, it seems to be a long, long way away.

- From "The Curators:" "the drop in base frequencies of the Earth over the last six years leading up to a knife-edge change at the start of 2016." I would like to hear more about the "knife-edge change in 2016" and its ongoing effects on us. I don't recall anything special during 2016 except for my heart attack. Was there anything more special in 2016 than in any other year?

What's happened basically...is it four years ago? Wow, up until around 2016 we were looking good, and it sort of started to drop off. It was so subtle, it was almost like falling asleep gently in front of a fire. So you start to go down the frequencies and you don't notice it. So what's happened is that we've gone from being, moving into a very high frequency condition to becoming complacent. And again this thing about the world being in the complete sort of chaos it is in now is because we've become complacent. Rather than manage ourselves and have more of the observer self amongst us all collectively, we've let things go, thinking that we're okay.

(25 min) And when we let things go, free radicals come in, such as incompetent leaders and the ability to allow things we wouldn't allow to happen happen, so to speak. It's something simple like throwing sweet wrappers out of a car window or some of the things that people wouldn't normally do, but do do now, because it's okay to do so. They feel it's okay. Basically, we haven't gone through a knife edge per se, but we've gone through a rapid descent. And that rapid descent is going to bottom out around I'm being told now about September time.

So when we start to work together properly, as a result of this virus, and we do work together properly, we'll start to behave, think and act in a different way, in a higher frequency way, and then we'll drop out of the other side. But the knife edge actually didn't happen per se, it ended up being a rapid deceleration, but a deceleration that was so subtle that we didn't see it. Okay. So that's what happened there.

- From "The Curators:" "Now is the time for further expansion and this further expansion will harden you for the work you are destined to do during the dialogues to come, two new and yet-to-be-started books that will test you to your limits." So have you been sufficiently hardened to support the work you're doing now? Or do you need to be more hardened?

So basically, this is to do with me becoming more capable of speaking the truth. Basically, and you know, identifying that sometimes we may need to catch something to stop something, such as this is going to be probably a very unpopular statement. But sometimes you have to catch it to stop it. If you create a fire wall by people becoming immune through catching something and then they're getting over it and being able to continue, because they've had it, then that stops something going past them, for instance. So we have to work out: Are we better off by containing ourselves and stop trying to stop the progress of a virus by doing social distancing and self-isolation? Or are we better off just catching it and getting on with it?

That will be an interesting computer algorithm to create to find out whether we're better off just catching it and getting on with it, and unfortunately, suffering the damage of certain individuals, who aren't well or who aren't genetically disposed to positively reacting against the virus, leaving their incarnation? Or do we self-isolate and not be immune to it, but just hope it burns out, because there's nobody to pass it on. Interesting computer modeling there, I feel.

But in terms of me, it's more against me being able to cope with higher and higher frequencies and become more and more capable of coping with wider and wider subjects and deeper and deeper analysis of those subjects, basically becoming more and more able to be expansive. And certainly, the book that I'm working on now, which is called "The Om: The Uncreated Creations" is one of those that's going to stretch me. I know that and certainly "Beyond the Origin" will do that as well. Okay, so that's what's going to happen there.

- Do we readers need to be hardened to process your latest book? Feels that way to me.?

That's to do with "The Curators." My advice is just read it and don't try to understand it. Once you've read it, give it a couple of weeks. Just leave it somewhere gathering dust and then read it again, when you feel the intuition to do so. And then you'll find that the information that's in there will have pervaded you, and you'll start to understand it in a better way. So again, it's allowing you to have the key to becoming more expansive. So read it, or put it down, but read it just like you would read a story, put it down, let it pervade through you, and then when you feel the urge, read it again and you'll find you'll understand much, much, much more. Okay, good.

- From "The Curators:" "You are getting old." I find this and the assertion that you, Mr. Om, have to experience all of the limitations of incarnate existence, every one of them, to be oddly comforting, as one tends to think of you as above all that?

(30 min) The only way to experience lower frequencies is to be incarnate. And the only way to experience incarnation properly is to experience everything. Everything everybody else does. The only individual who I understand, who decided to walk away from that and still be here is Babaji. Even Yogananda said that you're here and you experience everything that everybody else does. If you're here and one was a somebody who was completely outside of everything, completely outside, you would appear to be godlike and you'd be able to manifest things from nothing. You'd be able to cure illnesses. You'd be able to create technology. You'd be able to manipulate world financial systems. It would be unbalanced totally. And it wouldn't allow the individual who was incarnate to be able to experience the incarnation in the lower frequencies in the way you're supposed to experience it.

So that's what I'm experiencing and I have to experience it in a balanced way. I have to experience everything in a balanced way. And I've noticed certainly now that I am experiencing things in a balanced way. That which was yin is now yang. That which was yang is now yin with me. I'm experiencing everything in the way that I'm supposed to in a very balanced way. And the only way I can do that is to be in the environment of duality and the physical universe is that environment of duality. So it's a good question, thank you.

- SE: "Your frequency level has been elevated as a result of these dialogues, but the speed of elevation has been rapid, not at the same speed as you would normally be experiencing, even with the ascension being as close as it is."

Well, we went through the ascension before 2012, but the ascension wasn't a group ascension. So I'm just going to continue this part...

- I assume that "close" can be hundreds of generations in the future, rather than actually close. Do you concur?

Well, basically, we could have been very close to the ascension, in terms of what we call this mass ascension as a result of a critical mass being available. But my understanding is that this critical mass being available doesn't happen and didn't happen, because we ascend individually. When we start to ascend individually to the point that there's enough of us at a certain level, then we create a number of different triangulation functions either directly or from a volume-based triangulation perspective or an area-based triangulation perspective. And then we start to accelerate how others also ascend the frequencies as well.

So as we ascend the frequencies individually and we go into a different frequential environment and maybe choose to help those, who are in a lower frequential environment, we affect those others as well. So it wouldn't be like all of a sudden everybody else is enlightened, or self-aware, because they've gone from the third frequency (FB 3) to the fourth frequency (FB 4), it's the fact that people start to move up to that level in a faster and faster way. So we go from 1s and 2s to 10s and 20s and 100s moving up, so it becomes a logarithmic curve rather than a knife edge change upwards.

So right now though that potential has been pushed right back. Previously, I was seeing it was fifty years away, but it's certainly over a hundred years away. And that's if we stay where we are now and we come out the other side. We need to do some drastic changes in our attitudes and our thoughts, behaviors and actions to come back to where we could have been.

- In "The Curators", SE1 says: "From the perspective of mankind's understanding, all types of flora and fauna can be used for incarnate experience." In all of my spiritual readings, I have *never* come across the notion of mankind incarnating in flora. Do we incarnate in plants?

Well, no, we don't. We have the potential to, but we don't. So from the perspective of mankind's understanding, all types of flora and fauna can be used for incarnate experience, but if we did, we wouldn't benefit from it. It's simply because of our evolutionary level. Humans can incarnate into animals. Or they can incarnate into plants. They can incarnate into minerals. They can incarnate into larger gaseous areas within the physical universe. But it doesn't benefit them, because those vehicles that we'd incarnate into have dramatically lower levels of ability and the evolutionary opportunity. We are so highly advanced in comparison to those who are animals, for instance, those souls and those True Energetic Selves who are animals, it doesn't benefit us. (35 min) So we can incarnate into these different vehicle types, but we don't, because it doesn't benefit us. Whereas an animal soul could also incarnate into the animal vehicles or bodies and the plants and the minerals and some gaseous subjects in the rest of the physical universe, but they don't, because it doesn't benefit them. But they can't go into a human body, because it's too high an evolutionary step for them. So they need to work for a long, long, long time before they become a different evolutionary level that allows them to go into the lowest condition within the human stage of evolution.

So an entity of a certain evolutionary level that normally uses a certain vehicle to incarnate into can incarnate into that and that which is below. But it can't incarnate into that which is above, because it requires an evolutionary jump. Okay, but they don't generally, they don't basically, although it does happen on a very, very rare occasion incarnate into something which is lower than they are, but it doesn't benefit them. There's no evolutionary benefit from that.

- This is an expression of my experiences absorbing your writings. As I am slowly getting into The Curators, I find it at times well beyond my comprehension, like I'm a five-year-old struggling to grasp calculus. I find this oddly comforting and familiar, and I realize that I have felt this way before when first reading others of your books.

That'll be probably The History of God, Beyond the Source Books 1 and 2, and The Origin Speaks and probably even The Anne Dialogues.

- The notion that I must read, read and reread to fully absorb what you're bringing makes this, your latest work, seem like a chest full of treasures that will only slowly open up to my understanding. Thank you, always, for all you put into these works and for patiently bringing your perspective to humanity.

Well, thank you for reading it. And thank those other individuals who took the time to buy the books and read them. And sometimes people buy the books and they stay in their cupboards or their bookshelves for three or four years before they actually feel the desire to read them. I know a number of individuals, like JM, who have read them multiple times. And I know other individuals, who have bought them and haven't read them for two or three years. And then they read them and it comes to them. They read the first couple of pages and they can't get into it. It stays in the bookshelf and all of a sudden, when the time is right and they devour it.

It's all to do with timing and expansivity. But if we weren't being stretched, we wouldn't be evolving. So the opportunity to bring more and more detail to individuals, to highlight and illuminate the greater reality in a much more coherent and comprehensive way is an absolute joy. I mean I'm writing "The Om" book now and it's a wonder, an absolute delight to be able to do it. When I was doing the healing book, I knew what I got to do and it was a set framework in my mind and it was like writing a novel. You know every part of every chapter of every scene of scenario, whereas with this it's I don't know what's going to happen next.

And that's the joy of writing the books that are basically channeled information is that you don't know where you're going to go next. And when I actually read the books myself, if I go back, for instance, and look at a couple of pages to understand somebody's question from one of the books, I read it and I think, Wow! I also think wow! That was an amazing piece of work and I understand it, of course, because it's come through me. But to read it again and look at it, I think this is unbelievably deep information. And how wonderfully honored I am to be able to broadcast this information by being a channel for it. So I'm totally awed and totally in honor of being of service in this way. So for those of you, who thank me, thank the Source and thank the Origin for allowing this minute individual, irrespective of what his sentient origin is supposed to be, for being able to do this in this particular environment with all the limitations of this particular vehicle as well. Thank you. Namaste, because namaste is a deeper level of thanks. Thank you all.

2. What is the correct Law of Manifestation? If we start manifesting external things for ourselves, aren't we accruing more karma? (BA)

(40 min) If we manifest something, because we need it to be able to exist — that is, by manifestation I mean you sit and meditate and you visualize what you need. You do it morning and night. You sort of do it in the morning, when you get up and at night before you go to bed. And you have no doubt that it's going to happen, it will happen. So if you do manifesting, because it's a requirement, if it's some important part of your life plan, you feel you must have it, you almost need it to be able to move forwards, then there's no karma associated with it.

If you're just trying to manifest something for being greedy, and we can manifest something to overcome karma as well, by the way. I mean if you think about it, those of you who read "The Autobiography of a Yogi," there's a part in there [Chapter 34], where Babaji is working with Lahiri Mahasaya again and he's having to overcome a couple of different pieces karma, so that he can become instantaneously self-aware and recognize Babaji as being an entity he's worked with in a previous incarnation. And so he manifests this huge opulent palace around him, because in the previous life Lahiri Mahasaya became absorbed by material wealth and opulence.

And he materialized this opulent palace around him and said, What do you think of this, Lahiri? This is what you desired in your previous life. And Lahiri Mahasaya said, It looks okay, but I don't feel drawn to it. And Babaji was delighted, and I think he did a little dance from what I can remember from the book and he demanifested the palace and said, That's it. You've overcome that piece of karma now. Now you can become self-aware, because you're now purified. And then Babaji performed something and Lahiri Mahasaya started to remember who Babaji was and became capable of performing the spiritual or metaphysical feats that he could do later.

So this whole part of manifesting is sometimes you have to manifest things to experience things and then get over it. So for instance, you can manifest the need to have certain belongings. Then once you've got them, if you no longer desire them, because you've got them, then it's gone, isn't it? That particular karmic link is gone. So the whole point of manifestation is to achieve two things: one is some form of materialistic karmic link you need to dissolve by simply owning something and realizing that you don't need it, i.e. it doesn't own you, it doesn't control your thought processes. Or do you need to manifest something to survive? And those are two different things, so one is karmic and one is not karmic. One removes karma or can remove karma vs. one is providing the ability to survive in this particular low frequency environment.

So just be careful of how you're manifesting. What is the reason for your manifestation? Is it to experience something and then to move on? Or is it to help assist you in your way of navigating through your incarnation in terms of providing for you — you know, things like providing food or shelter, those sorts of things. And the last part is to do with again this virus.

- This is in context to the people who died due to Coronavirus. So, did they decide to die due to this virus before their incarnation here? In that case was Coronavirus already in our life path or did this happen due to the decreasing frequency of our planet (destiny vs collective manifestation maybe)?

We choose our exit points before we leave this incarnation generally. I would suggest 99.999...recurring to the twelfth significant figure % of people leave this incarnation as a result of the way that they've chosen. Some of those will have chosen this virus to go, so some people disappear at 21 or 35 or some of them are 83 [years old]. So those people, who appear to be very fit and healthy, but genetically predisposed to not being able to fight the virus will go, because that's the way they've chosen. So you could argue that some of these people, who are going now are going as a result of the way that they've chosen to leave this incarnation as part of their life plan. Whereas others have chosen to experience it and get over it. Others have chosen to live in fear of being exposed and hide away from it. So the whole point of it is if we live in fear of it, then we become lower frequency.

(45 min) And this leads me into the meditation that we're going to have, because one of the ways in which we can remove or delete our ability to succumb to the more severe effects of this virus is to raise our frequencies. Now a number of individuals I've worked with have told that they can use the Chakra Opening Exercises to raise our frequency and that is without a doubt one of the ways of doing it. If you're opening your chakras and rotating them clockwise, you're pulling energy in and you raise your quantum level or you raise your frequency to a level, which is above the gross physical level. And that means that you're less sticky, you're less physical, and therefore, the virus can't attach to you.

So if we want to live in fear, we will become more sticky. If we live without fear, because we understand a higher level of understanding, where we're coming from a different level, a different plane of understanding and understand the greater reality in a different way or the way that the local reality works with the greater reality, then we don't live in fear. And so we don't become lower frequency enough for the virus to stick to us. So we don't become sticky, we become more teflon.

So the whole point of it is if you can use the Chakra Opening Exercises and I'll make sure the links to them on the transcripts that that wonderful lady (US) is going to do for us at the end of this particular Satsanga. And I'll put it on the emails I'll send out to those devotees, who receive the emails, and I'll also put it on the blog on the website, so people can download the Chakra Opening Exercises and can assist themselves in doing so. And so they can raise their own frequencies and become higher frequency.

But what I want to do now is a different way of doing it. Okay, I want to create a condition where we can move ourselves out of a fear-based environment, a lower frequency environment, and raise our frequencies into a more understanding environment and be a higher frequency. Those things that are of the physical can't stick to us.

If you think about it — think of it this way, if we have ice. I've used this example a number of times. If we have ice as being physicality, gross physicality and then we give it energy. We raise its frequency. It becomes water. Then if we have that water and we raise its frequency again, it becomes a gas, steam. If we raise its frequency again, it becomes very diffuse, almost diffuse to the point of nonexistence. Okay, so if we have ice on the table and we put something on it, like for instance, a cup. The cup stays on the ice and if the ice is cold enough, the cup will stick to the ice, for instance. It's like when we go into a very cold environment, say -40 degrees Celsius, and we put our hands on a metal rail, our hands will stick to the ice, because it's lower frequency. And our skin sticks to it, the molecules cold weld basically together, so our hand would stick to it.

And this is what happens to the human body. If the cup or the hands in this example of being in a cold environment is placed on the ice, or the metal railing at -40 C, it sticks to it. So the virus will stick to a lower frequency. But if we are higher frequency, like water for instance, our hands will pass through water, we get resistance when we pass through it, but it's still there. And a cup would still sit in a dish or a saucepan full of water. If we increase the frequency and the water becomes higher frequency or the ambient temperature becomes higher, we don't get stuck to it. We don't get stuck in the railing with our fingers, and the cup no longer sits in a pool of water, but it sits in a pool of air. But the air moves around the cup, because of what was ice became water, became air, and even more diffuse air, if we give it more energy. It moves around it. The cup cannot sit on that which is not there anymore. It's a higher frequency.

(50 min) So what we need to do is make ourselves higher frequency, so we do two things: one, we make ourselves less dense, which stops the virus from sticking to us, because it can't stick to us if we're higher frequency. You know, the cup in the air vs. the cup on the ice. Or the hand in the air vs. the hand on a railing at -40 C vs. just being on those low frequency environments. which is the ice or the railing. So it won't stick to us.

So there is another function. It brings us into a higher state of understanding. The higher the frequency we are, the more we start to become calm and collected, because we start to understand by becoming more expansive and we start to tap into higher frequencies. And we start to understand the bigger picture or the greater reality in more detail. We start to understand who and what we are, and we start to understand that this particular incarnation is just a moment in our experience. And so as a result of that, we move beyond being in the first three frequencies of the physical universe. And even though we might be still appear to be physical, we'll be less physical enough for the virus to stick to us. So for instance, the water would drip off the cup. So the minimum we'll want to try and do in this meditation is to make ourselves at least like water or hopefully like steam at least. Okay, so let's meditate.

Part 3. Meditation

(51 min) Okay, so let's meditate. Please download the high quality MP3 File to do the guided meditation with Guy Steven Needler via his website or blog (meditation starts around 51 min).

(1:07) Closing comments: Well, we've come to the end of this Satsanga and again thank you for listening to it. A couple of the workshops have been put on hold. Certainly, the Chinese workshop is put on hold. It was supposed to happen in May, so is the one that was supposed to be held in Slovenia has been put on hold. Slovenia is very close to north of Italy. The next workshop was supposed to be in Irvine, California on the west coast of the U.S. That's still planned to happen. I think by the time we get to July, things have calmed down a lot and the flights will be up and running back to the States and people will be able to get back into the U.S. But we'll have a contingency plan anyway, we can always move it back a little bit, if we need to. But right now it's still happening.

If you look on the website: www.beyondthesource.org, look for the Events tab, and scroll down to the Workshops, and you'll see all about the Irvine, CA workshop there and the link to the Eventbrite page to buy your ticket and reserve your tickets as well. I'm going to, whilst I was doing this, I was getting a lot of I wouldn't say persuasion, but I was getting a lot of information to suggest that I need to...I'm going to help people for the next two months.

I'm going to reduce the price of the Psychic Shield, because all you need to do with the Psychic Shield is to do it and then tell it to provide you with additional protection for the virus, so that the shield also protects you from the virus as well. And it will do so. So I'm going to reduce it down to £1 (British pound sterling). I'll have to keep something on there to keep the system working, so I'm going to reduce it down to £1 for two months from the start of the Satsanga, which is from the 28th of March up until the 28th of May, I'm going to reduce it to £1, so people can buy it very easily. And also people can buy it for other people as well. Okay, so I'll do that. I'm going to reduce it to £1, so people can use it very simply. It's very affordable and I'll leave it on there for the next two months, so people can use it and share it with others.

Okay, thank you for listening again. Thank you for being high frequency. Thank you for understanding the bigger picture and listening to me advise that this is basically one of a number of different ways we're being told to behave ourselves and look after our environment and each other and stop being selfish. Use our individualized free will in a more, shall we say, collaborative and higher frequency way. So keep safe, keep high frequency. I look forward to working with you in April Satsanga. Namaste to you all." END

NOTE: I have prepared a searchable pdf document with ALL World Satsanga Lectures, Questions and Answers collated from 2016-2020 to make it easier for us to see what questions have already been asked in previous Satsangas and what answers were given at the time. This will allow us to ask NEW questions or ask similar questions from a different angle after reviewing what we already know. This document is over 600 pages, so don't try to print it out.
