

October 30, 2021 - Pre-Recorded World Satsanga for The Kevin Moore Show

Transcript of Pre-Recorded World Satsanga by Guy Steven Needler:

"Welcome to this World Satsanga held on the 30th of October 2021 in conjunction with Kevin Moore and The Moore Show. And Kevin is continuing to produce lots more information, lots more docuseries [called "They Call Us The Channelers"] referencing different channeling and different people who channel. And it's worthwhile going onto his YouTube site to see what's there. And Kevin's been very, very busy and he's going to be more involved with the World Satsanga again, specifically when we're going to be video-based as of January 2022.

So look out for the links on the website, the blog, and those people who receive by email. Of course, I'll probably be limited on the number of people who can dial in, and I'll certainly be limited to around 40-45 minutes, so the lecture and meditation will be added on to broadcast — not the live broadcast. So the live broadcast will be basically questions from people via the Zoom messenger rather than being emailed in as normal. So my hope is that the number of questions we've got right now, I'm going to be covering for both October and November, whereas I was lacking a few questions in the last month in September, and now I've got a plethora of questions, which is fantastic. It's always feast and famine with this work.

So the agenda today is to go through "Understanding why we fear death?" — and I'll talk about that and what the reasons are behind that. Then we've got the questions. We'll see how long we can go through the questions, and then we've got a meditation to help us to connect with intelligences that are outside of the local area of the Earth with it being frequential or geo-universally located.

Part 1. Lecture on "Understanding why we fear death?"

Okay, so let's have a look at this lecture about why we fear death. Well, the fear of death is something, which is talked about a lot in lots and lots of different religions, and specifically those who look at the Hindu religion, the Buddhist religion will understand that there is a lot of information there that purports to explain that there is no such thing as death, that there is only the demise of the human vehicle, which is basically as I've described it. It's a vehicle for us to use whilst we are experiencing the low frequencies associated with the physical universe, the lowest frequencies within the multiverse, which gives us a significant boost in our evolutionary content through the ability for ourselves to accrue evolutionary content.

But nevertheless, our function of being here does create a little problem. And that problem is that in effect we enter into a frequential state, where we need to be able to interact with it in a way that is coincidental or concurrent with the frequencies that are here. So that means we need to associate ourselves with a body of energy that is of the same frequential level. In this instance, it's a vehicle we call a human body. It doesn't need to be the human body, it could be other bodies that are of the same frequency associated with other frequencies surrounding the physical universe anywhere within the physical universe.

It's just that the human body is used primarily on Earth, and the human body is something we use to enable us to experience individualized free will whilst also experiencing the lowest frequencies available to us in the multiversal environment. So as a function of that, when we come down to the lower frequencies, we start to lose the connectivity with our True Energetic Self, that larger part of us, which we sometimes call the Oversoul (in Dolores Cannon speak) or the Higher Self (in sort of standard spiritual speak) or the Godhead (in Hindu texts) simply because we are a lower frequency, so our communicative bandwidth disappears as a result of it.

It's a little bit like trying to communicate with each other by flags or fire messages, that we used to in the early medieval days, when the Higher Self is communicating on the fastest computer on the world and it connects to the whole of the internet simultaneously and understands it instantaneously. So we start to become disassociated from what we are, simply because our connectivity is reduced significantly.

(5 min) And when our connectivity is reduced significantly, the sentience that is projected from our Higher Self starts to associate itself with this environment, and that environment for it is the vehicle that it is part of, that it is integrated with, albeit for a temporary period. So we come to a point when we're about any age from 0 to 7 years, where we're sort of in and out of the body, so to speak. But around 7, we've totally integrated fully with the body. But in that period of time, the sentience that's there is totally associated itself with the body, rather than what it's supposed to be, which is a smaller aspect of sentience and energy. And that sentience and energy is experiencing an environment on behalf of the larger body of sentience and energy.

So we get something called the ego being created. And the ego is a function of, shall we say, sentience that's created its own personality as a result of, shall we say, the immersion within the association within the human form. And that ego, that temporary personality grows and grows in dominance over the years. But the ego itself or the temporary personality understands that it is only in existence — although it's never lost, everything that is experienced, learned and created evolution is also absorbed by the True Energetic Self automatically, so the aspect of personality that is the ego, that's a function of us being here temporarily, is never lost but it is absorbed into the overall personality of what we are, our spiritual or evolutionary personality or what's a better way of saying it? Yeah, I think personality is a good way of saying it — think of it like a signature. And so it becomes like a small part, it's like a drop in the ocean compared to the ocean.

So the ego fears the demise of the physical form, and it becomes a function of its desire to maintain the physical form. So the physical form and the longevity of the human form become a function of the ego's desire to maintain its dominance or its existence. So it knows that the physical form is a goal post it has to work with, to allow it to continue its existence. On top of that, if we start to work on ourselves from the spiritual perspective, we start to increase our communicative bandwidth, we start to be able to communicate that which we really are. That also dissolves or, should I say, reduces the dominant factor of that particular temporary personality that's created. So the ego also fears that, so it doesn't want us to become spiritualized.

It doesn't want the physical form to demise. And so it creates a whole load of fear around (1) the unknown, and (2) the longevity of the human form. So that's why we experience fear, and we experience fear of the human form demising. We experience fear of being disconnected from the human form, even though our consciousness, so to speak, or our sentience continues to exist. So that becomes an irrational thought process, an irrational belief system surrounding it that is perpetuated by the ego to maintain its dominance. And all of these things are sort of together — you know, fear of the unknown, fear of disconnection, fear of the demise of the human form — are all part of the ego's way of controlling our ability to progress or hold us back, so it can continue its existence. So that's why we fear death.

We fear death, because it's not us fearing it or our True Energetic Self or the aspect or the sentience that's integrated within the human form that fears death, it wants to go back to its normal frequential state and integrated state with its True Energetic Self. It doesn't want to get involved with staying here as long as it needs to. So it really is the ego that makes us want to fear the demise of the human form that it classifies as "death," because what it is really doing is it's classifying its lack of dominance as death.

(10 min) Again it becomes part of a huge memory set or part of a huge signature or personality set that is the overall function of the True Energetic Self or Godhead or Oversoul or Higher Self, and not just the little bit of sentience that's in the human form now. So that's why we fear death. It's basically a function of our egos not wanting to lose dominance over that which we really are. It wants to control who and what we are. It wants to stay in control of the human form. It wants to stop us from becoming more spiritualized, because it understands that becoming spiritualized raises our frequencies, and starts our sentience becoming associated with who and what we are properly, and as a function of that, we become aware and awake. And we start to function in the way associated with what we really are rather than this temporary personality that's created through incarnation. Okay, so I hope that explains it.

There is one thing you need to understand — why would you want to fear something...you know, we never fear going home, do we? We never fear being home, being cozy in our home. So why would we fear going Home to our normal frequential state? And lots of the true religions all say this — they all say that you're just returning back to your father. You could classify it as being Source or God, but really your immediate father, so to speak, or your immediate main body of sentience and energy is your True Energetic Self, your Godhead, your Oversoul, your Higher Self. Okay, I hope that helps us understand that there should be no fear of the demise of the human form, that it should be a joyful release and excitement surrounding the movement back into the energetic should be what we should be experiencing rather than fear of moving back into the energetic.

Okay, I've got lots and lots of questions here. I'm not sure if I'm going to get through them all before we have to go into the meditation. So those of you who submitted questions and they haven't been answered in this particular Satsanga, don't worry, I'm going to do them in November. They will be prioritized until November. And I do believe that there were some questions that were submitted the last time in September, but for some strange reason I lost them. But they've been resent to me now, so I apologize to DC for that. Okay, so the first question here...

Part 2. Questions and Answers

1. The information you have provided via your books and lectures, for example, The History of God, The Origin Speaks, seems new information never before released. On meditation this seems to be true that the information you provide us is new information that has not been revealed before or if it has been revealed there are only a few in the spiritual and nonphysical realms to have been exposed or know about this information. (DC)

Well, the answer is yes, and there's some questions pertaining to this. I shall not answer the question right now.

• Is it true that for the most part this information is newly revealed information for us?

I would say that there's a vast majority of it is new, but there's also interestingly into the known information. For instance, the Hindus, the yogis know something about this information. The Buddhists know about some of the information. And it's even some of the information is in the Bible. And not having read any of these documents, I will have to later, because I've got to for another book. But what I would suggest is that some of this information is always there. It's just that sometimes it gets forgotten. And that some of the information is presented to us in a way, which is consistent with our current understanding, our current educational level, our current expansion or expansive capacity.

So my feeling is that having seen one or two things from old Hindu texts, like for instance, yogi Ramachakara and even Paramahansa Yogananda after writing "The History of God," I've sort of come to realize that there are areas where my information is new, and there's some areas where it's absolutely a different understanding of that which has gone before. And the way it's gone before is explained in old educational levels and old language.

So I'm just meditating on what percentage of my stuff is in terms of newness? Ah, they're saying 95%, okay. I've no doubt there's other stuff that is going to be more crossover later, but 95% I'm being told here what I've been talking about — well, what I've channeled is new, specifically the depth of knowledge and the understanding. And they're saying, just look at "The Anne Dialogues" — okay, what they're saying is that some of the 5% or so, maybe 7% I'm just being told here, that is channeled is using, specifically with "The Anne Dialogues," is using known subject headings, so we understand a little bit about the subject heading, but the information contained within the subject heading is deeper and wider and gives it a completely different understanding.

(15 min) So they're saying that would elevate it to a certain percent, because some of the subject headings are similar to those things that are already out there. But the information is of a different level and depth. And also we have to understand that sometimes how we understand these things is based upon a different level of teacher. A teacher can only take us to a certain level, then we need another teacher to take us to the next level, and another teacher to take us to the next level. So as somebody who is helping the metaphysical or spiritual population of the Earth become more aware and awake and advanced and expansive, I've potentially come on the shoulders of others.

I know that Dolores Cannon supported me a lot, an awful lot. She was really interested in the work that I was doing and what I was channeling. So it is important that there are going to be people after me, who take it even further. And that's guaranteed. So those people as well will probably work with what would become known subject matters, and those subject matters will be basically again expanded upon and I welcome it, totally welcome it.

• What has been the response? How is this information received by spiritual beings in the spiritual/nonphysical realm as a result of information recently revealed?

I was told a number of years ago, probably 9 years ago, from somebody who is also sensitive and could communicate with different entities, that the information that I was bringing forward and some of the teachings I was bringing forwards shouldn't really be happening now. It was something for later. But it was interesting that it was coming out now. So from the energetic side of things, I've got a lot of support, so I'm humbled and honored with that. So it's good.

• Is there a spiritual solution for Robo calls and scam artists who are attacking the economy and innocent people like pesky mosquitoes?

No, basically, you've just got to ignore them. Yeah, you've just got to ignore them basically. And just realize that it's part of being here and ignore it. Distance yourself from it. Don't let it affect you. That's the most important thing, because it could be a little bit of a way of maintaining your low frequency by being associated with it or being affected by it or by being annoyed by it. That's the thing to do is avoid being annoyed by it. Just consider it as being part of the background.

• What is our best approach to improving the leadership on this planet? What are some of the things, techniques, strategies, that we can do to help those in leadership positions to be more effective and efficient and less corrupted by the energies, love, wisdom, power, joy and money?

We can only lead by example. People in leadership positions have usually got there, because human beings have put them there. And that includes spiritual leaders, you know, and some of them are good and some of them are bad. Some of them are pure, some of them aren't. Some of them get corrupted by the level that they're at. This is karma basically.

So the only thing we can do as individuals is to illustrate to these people just by the way we live, by the way we think, behave and act, that maybe the way that they're leading isn't consistent with somebody who should be in the position they're in. And so when people who aren't behaving themselves and doing things correctly — like following the rules and regulations that we put before us — like not undertaking a motorway in a way that allows you to overtake on the right hand side, for instance. We don't have freeways in the UK yet, although I've seen plenty of freeway behavior. Or the crossings where you have to wait for the light to turn green for you, but people cross when it's red and you know, I've done the same thing.

(20 min) If you think about it, all of this is part of the overall erosion of our ability to follow the rules and regulations that we've agreed to work with. So really, if we can lead by example by following those rules and regulations that we've accepted and we think are important for an advanced civilization, then those around us will also follow them. And they'll eventually go up the tree to the leaders as well, so that they will also follow the rules and regulations that they're supposed to be creating and they're supposed to be the leaders of, and they're supposed to be the people who broadcast it, and therefore, sharing, shall we say, the leadership from the top that we should be following them. So all we can do is just be the model, be the model citizen, be the model spiritual individual.

- What is the best way to get evidence — evidence that we are connected to the Source, to the Origin, to the Aum?

Well, Aum is the base resonant frequency of everything that's part of the Origin.

- What I mean by this is how do we know we are actually connected to the higher realms and not the ego?

Meditation. The only way to really understand what it's like to be connected to the Source is to connect to it. We can't really understand it unless we experience it ourselves. If we don't experience it ourselves, it's a belief system. If we experience it ourselves, it's an experiential experience that creates a knowledge based system rather than a belief-based system. Now clearly belief also adds into knowledge, but unless you're doing it yourself, it stays as belief rather than experience. So the only thing to do is meditate — use things like kriya yoga, use my Traversing the Frequencies.

But whatever you do, keep yourself high frequency, and then you'll be able to connect with Source and you'll know the difference. You know when you're connected to Source. It's the most amazing thing you've ever experienced. Ever, and it's so expansive, it's unbelievable. But don't take my word for it, meditate, meditate, meditate. That's the only way to do it. And dedicate it in your meditation. And don't get pulled into things that are low frequency, like gossip or like receiving stolen goods, for instance, even if somebody says they're okay. If you feel it's not okay, don't buy it. Or participating in character assassinations, those sorts of things. Keep away from all that sort of stuff.

Stay high frequency, meditate, keep good company. That means you only communicate with people, who are higher frequency and who want to also progress themselves and want to become connected themselves. And in stark competition, by the way, getting to be connected to Source before somebody else isn't a competition — it's an honor to be connected, and if you're connected, then you can help others. Not say you got there first, you climbed the mountain first. So that's it. Meditate and meditate and meditate.

- Do our guides have a good sense of humor? What is the best way to communicate with our guides?

Meditate. They do have a sense of humor actually. It's not limited to being on the Earth. It's not limited to being in the physical environment, or any of the physical vehicles that we can interact with to experience the low frequencies of the physical universe. It's part of who and what we are. We do experience a level of humor. It's probably more profound, in fact, I'm being told it is more profound and more deep, although there's a level of detachment as well whilst we're in the higher frequencies, which we are normally residing within our True Energetic Self or Godhead or Oversoul. Okay, good. Right, we've got some questions now from JR.

2. If you google vegetables as being color coded, white is the immunity family, red is good for the heart and so on, there are many charts to show this. I wondered if you had any insight into peoples eye colors in a similar fashion? Like are blue eyed people more connected to their throat chakra or green eyed more in tune with their heart or heart based decision making etc.? (JRH)

(25 min) I'm just having a quick meditation. I know there's a legend, there's still a bit of a legend, the physical thing that blue eyed people are more gifted than others and are looked after and preferred than other people with brown or black eyes or green eyes or hazel eyes — mine are hazel by the way. No, I'm just being told the function of the eye color is simply a product of the genome you're part of. If you look at Afro-Caribbeans and Asians, their genome is particularly associated with brown eyes.

So it is definitely associated with the genome without a doubt. But there's no spiritual connection. The only thing I'm being told here is that people with blue eyes were quite rare in the past, and so they were considered to be revered as a result of it. And I'm being told that Jesus had blue eyes as well, so that might be another reason why people think that people with blue eyes are special, that they are christened so from birth, but other than that there's no association with it at all. It's just a product of the genome associated with your strain of a physical form, its frequency it was introduced to the Earth in, and even the location it initially was used on or the planet it was initially used on before it was transplanted onto the Earth.

- I watched a show where a man used a dowsing rod to reveal the energy wall of Stonehenge. He asked it questions and it would reveal things. In similar fashion, are there any known devices or technology that can reveal answers to yes and no questions or are those unreliable? (Tarot card readings or pendulum readings (crystal hangs from rope and is held over an answer board), etc.?)

Yeah, there's I mean really, there's all sorts of stuff from tea leaves to bones, you know, there's all sorts of these different things that people have used in the past as mediums, so to speak, as a connective medium between themselves and the energetic to try to gain answers from their True Energetic Selves, their Higher Selves or their Oversouls, or even just what we call the Cosmic Consciousness, which is obviously Source. So based upon that, it's just a way of us connecting. We don't need to have them, because we can connect with anything by using our intention. But things like cards, crystals, pendulums, dowsing rods, etc., they're just a way of connecting in a very, very limited way with other levels of knowledge, entities, etc., that are in higher frequency.

I can remember a long time ago, probably 2012, we had an event that my publisher did in London. It was the Transformation Conference, but held in London rather than in the US. And one of the ladies there is a very experienced dowser and she got these couple of rods and a copper tube as well. And I saw these and I grabbed hold of them, and I thought I wonder if I can influence these? And I was influencing them to the point where they were just rotating — I could make them rotate in any direction. And the lady who was there, she said stop messing with my rods — you'll stop them from being pure conductors. I said, oh, that's an interesting comment, so I gave them back to her. So you have to be careful with these things, because sometimes you can influence the outcome based upon your own desires as well. So based upon that, they're not particularly accurate unless you allow yourself to become completely empty of influence of what the answer is going to be. Okay, if you have a desire for a certain answer, then you'll get the answer you want. That's because you're directing those particular devices, pendulums or dowsing rods or cards to give you the answer that you want.

- Is meditation the only way to increase your sentient weight? Or are their crystals or metals (Egyptians wearing stones and gold) that can assist or even any know plants etc.?

(30 min) Sentient weight is like sentient quality. It's like a way of saying you've got a lot more in a space, so to speak. Sentient weight is gained through experiential and evolutionary progression. That's the only way one can create sentient weight, so density of sentience is a function of evolutionary progression. So meditation is probably the only way from what I can gather. There's no physical means, it's just meditation.

- Since there are parallels of everything, does that mean there is also a universe where Source Entity or Origin are malevolent (like the dark twin brother type of scenario)?

No. And the answer to why it's no is because parallelism is a function of the creation of a particular entity or entities, and not that entity itself, if that entity is the creator of the environment, that creates the potential for parallelism. So for instance, there wouldn't be any variants of our Origin sentience or variants of Source Entity sentience, because the Sources are compartmentalized within the Origin, and the Origin is the sentience associated with the structure that it currently works with, the dominance of it.

There isn't or event space doesn't allow parallelism outside the diameter or sphere of influence of those high levels of sentience, because it doesn't create an evolutionary potential. Evolutionary potential is done through depths of experience, and that's done at the sort of the very minute levels, where parallelism is allowed or is created by event space and not bigger. So that's a very good question, and I'm very pleased it's been asked actually. But it's not something that is a function of event space.

- Why did the pre-Origin sentience [Event Space] push so hard for the Origin to become? Why did it feel this was imperative (at the risk of destroying itself)?

Well, it didn't destroy itself, it just reduced its dominance as the dominant sentient being. So what it did realize though is that for the overall sentience that is being born through so-called Darwinian evolution, via energies grouping together and going down the evolutionary road to evolution, it recognized that it could never achieve that which another sentience could achieve.

So it's a bit like why would you not allow something bigger to be created in lieu of yourself? When we are on our own, we are individuals, and we have limitations based upon our capacity. Whereas if we join together, or we allow somebody else to do something for us, for example, like build a house — not many of us could build our own houses — but if we joined together with a housing community where we all work together to build a house, and each of us got skills that allow that house to be built, we become better. We build the houses, we build the estate. If we can't do something like plumbing or plastering or electrical work or tiling, then we have to get somebody in who can. So it's a bit like that, very basically.

It's a bit like the sentience that was the Event Space knew that it couldn't become a level of sentience that it had seen the potential for, if it stayed in dominance. So that's why it chose to reduce its own level of sentience down to a higher level of intelligence rather than sentience to allow the Origin to become. It knew that that was the way forwards — the best way for a progressive level of evolution to be achieved was to allow this particular sentience to become the dominant sentience.

(35 min) And how it would create the possibility of multiple smaller versions of sentience to allow the accelerated accrual of evolution as well. It knew that this other sentience would do that, and it wasn't capable of it itself. So it's a bit like us not being able to fix a plumbing problem, we get a plumber in. It's the same sort of thing.

Okay, and I've got some questions here, just looking at the timing. So the next question is from US, but I think these have also come from another direction as well, so if one of the previous questioners recognizes these as one of their questions, then that's where it's come from. Because I think, although they come from US, the lady who transcribes the World Satsanga, and we're going to work together to create a book called "World Satsanga: The First Ten Years" because at the end of this year, it's ten years, which is a phenomenal thing to think about. So if you see this as yours rather than US's questions, then that's fine.

3. How is it that Source and Origin have all this "no addictions" yet seem very addicted to incarnation? or voyeurism? (J)

Source Entity isn't addicted, nor is the Origin addicted to incarnation. It's just that us as smaller individualized units or aspects of sentience from our True Energetic Self, which is a smaller unit of sentience from our Source, which is a smaller individualized unit of sentience from the Origin, recognized that the only way to accelerate our evolution is to experience every aspect of the environment that's created within the Source. So that means all the frequencies, and all of the environments that could be created by these frequencies. So what we desire is to experience all this stuff in the ways that we do need it, and we're all doing it in different ways.

So we sometimes do get addicted to it, because of our desire for certain, shall we say, sensory pleasures or mental pleasures, such as being in power or being leaders or have control over others or, for instance, bodily pleasures, the imbibing of alcohol or drugs, food, smoking, and physical pleasures, such as sex, those sorts of things. But we eventually do detach from them and become, as we sort of master the process of becoming incarnate, and we come down and do our jobs and leave, and we don't get addicted to it or desire to stay longer than we need to. So it's really us, that is working with the incarnation, and not particularly Source. This is just us, as a couple of steps down from Source trying to experience Source in the best way we can do to help Source evolve.

• Since we are all "GOD," how is God not hurting itself, like how we would see a "cutter" cutting themselves by doing all this incarnation and blood and death?

So people cut themselves or damage themselves or injure themselves. Source is too far up the frequencies to absolutely experience everything that everybody is doing, because it's a bit like us understanding the damage that a cell is having or feeling what a cell feels when its particular life is ended. Or atoms clashing, we can't feel atoms clashing in our body. We can't feel cells dying and being reproduced in our body. So it's a bit like that.

So in terms of us as smaller individualized units of sentience, whilst incarnate, doing all sorts of things to help ourselves get through it, or sometimes ask for help, which is what people who damage themselves or harm themselves are looking for, they're asking for help to move over a certain mental problem or even a physical problem that's causing mental problems. Then although it's being experienced by us as a small unit of sentience, in our experiencing it, Source has experienced it. And so the cells that die or the cells that get damaged by each other or the cells that are fighting viruses or diseases get damaged, they sort of experience it, but us as the body itself doesn't experience it either, because it's so low down in the structural levels. So they're experiencing it on behalf of us, and we're experiencing these things on behalf of Source, and therefore, Source experiences it.

- If Origin can make all the Source Entities free of Karma and high frequency beings, why not make us all like that?

(40 min) Because the Origin and the Source are not a function of karma, because they're not associated with the low frequencies of the physical universe. It is part of them, but they aren't within it. We are within it. The physical universe is an environment within the multifunctional multiverse. So based upon that, it is up to us experience the ability to detach from wanting to go back into or experiencing certain thoughts, behaviors and actions, levels of power, etc., etc., that you don't have in the energetic. So we have decided to experience these things and we have decided to work out ourselves how to enter into this environment and not get addicted to them or attached to them, which is karma.

So it's us — we've decided to do it and we've decided to work out how to detach from karma, and therefore, when we've detached from karma, because it's only a function of the physical universe, it's only dharma, which is positive karma, then once we've done this, once we've mastered it, we no longer need to incarnate. And we don't need to incarnate, therefore, to evolve fast, so we can continue our evolutionary progression in the higher frequencies of the multiverse rather than in the lower frequencies of the physical universe.

- How is it fair that SE1 to SE12 are created without having to do any of the trials any of us have to go through? I find this hard to grasp, how hypocritical things appear ... is there any other answer other than "because that's the way it is" or "it's the will of God"?

They're going through their own trials basically. They're doing it in their own way. We are just part of Source Entity One (SE1), so to speak. It's only SE1, because it's the first Source Entity I talked about. There's no order of creation associated with the numbers — it's just an order I communicated with those that were closest to me at the time, as I ventured further and further away from the energies associated with SE1.

So they are experiencing what they need to experience to evolve and they're doing their own evolution in their own way. So they're doing things in a different way. They're probably very happy that we're doing things in our way, on behalf of Source Entity One and we're probably very happy that they're doing things in their way, on behalf of their Source Entities.

So you have to think of it from a higher perspective, which is that everything is experiencing what it needs to experience in order to evolve in the way that it's decided to do it to diversify the overall experiential condition for Sources and Origin, and therefore, the overall quality of evolution, and therefore, the quality of sentience, and therefore, the increase in sentient weight, so to speak, or sentient density, if you want to call it that.

And the sort of parting comment to these questions is...

- I find this hard to grasp, how hypocritical things appear ... is there any other answer other than "because that's the way it is" or "it's the will of God"?

It's not the will of God, it's us. It's the way we've created it. So we are, when we're on Earth, we have individualized free will, and that is a major gift, a major gift — so we create our own environment. We create our own experience of the environment, and through the interaction with the environment and the interaction with others in the environment. So based upon this, we only have ourselves to blame.

That's the way to think of it, because we are not quite mature enough to be able to ascend past the need to incarnate. Or we're not mature enough to ascend past the need to incarnate in the physical universe in the low frequency. Once we start to move up the frequencies, we start to understand and we start to move up the frequencies quite quickly.

Okay, so let's have a look at what we've got here. I think we're going to have too many questions for this Satsanga. So I'm going to go through a couple more from MO, and then we'll use the rest of MO's for November and then we'll have FN's for November as well, so a combination of MO and FN for November and there might be a few more, of course, for November and December, but I want to clear the decks to see if I can do, so we can start to operate in the Zoom message mode in January onwards. I think I'll go through half of these. I'll just quickly count how many questions there are from MO....11, so I'm going to go through 5 of these questions and then we'll leave the rest for next time.

4. Are we able to dissolve the energetic hooks that we created? What I mean is that it is not nice create one, so if and when we realize that we might have created them to attract attention of others, it is possible to be dissolved by the intension of its creator? What are some ways that we can dissolve our own energetic hooks and heal the damage that we may have caused the other? (MO)

(45 min) Yes, I mean I've regularly dissolved energetic hooks between people, and between a person and its previous incarnation. It's a regular healing process. But basically, from an individual perspective, not an experienced healer, or had lots of experience in understanding these hooks or links or lines are there, then it's a bit difficult. But what I would say is this, Offer forgiveness first forgiving the links or the hooks from the individual who you've given them to and also express your sorrow for giving them in the first place. And that helps a long way.

But you can also visualize these hooks dissolving within you and dissolving within them as well, and the link, i.e. the connectivity between them, which may look like a line, a thing a little bit like a hook on a fishing line, the one of the line is attached on the hook and the other end of the line is attached to the rod and the reel. So just think of it in terms of hooks can be connected by something, some line or other, whether it's an energy line or if you meditate on it and you get some visualization that looks like a rope or string or some electric cabling, then just think of it in terms of a connection between you and somebody else. And that connection is connected in some form or way, which keeps it connected to them, it doesn't fall off. But then see or visualize these links just disappearing, just visualize them melting, for instance.

Or use your mentally spoken words to just say, I dissolve this link. I seek forgiveness from the person I linked with for having to put up with or having to experience the link I didn't need to have the experience of. And you can do these sorts of things, these affirmations to add to it. That's the way to remove it. Just visualize them, seek forgiveness, forgive the self, visualize them being dissolved. If you have physical interaction with the individual, just say you're sorry and seek physical forgiveness from them for giving you double forgiveness, and you give them a verbal apology as well. That also works.

But if they're not in the same room or you're not in the same country, then all you've got to do is meditate on it, visualize that or use your mentally spoken words to achieve the dissolving of the link and the removal of the links of the hooks and the links together. Okay, in fact, in the "Psycho-Spiritual Healing” book, we can see where there are very complicated examples of hooks and a way of healing or removing those hooks is quite complicated. That’s a different thing altogether. Okay, so that’s in the “Psycho-Spiritual Healing” book as well.

- In “The History Of God” P376, an alien was saying, "...we wouldn't dream of contaminating our bodies with alcohol, tea, coffee, or cigarettes." How does tea contaminate our bodies? Can organic, pesticide/herbicide free tea can also be contaminating?

Yeah, coffee and tea and things like marijuana and other stuff are contaminating to the body, even though they are naturally produced substances. They do have an effect, because they create a...I mean, for instance, caffeine and tannin are acid, aren't they? And they create a state of beingness, when you drink it. That's why we drink it. People get calmed down when they drink coffee. It's the same with tea. So there's a chemical function that occurs within the human body as a result of imbibing all these different things. So there's no pesticides or herbicides that can free the tea from being contaminated, it's just that we need to be aware that they are a contaminant of sorts.

(50 min) But also note that some of the tea aficionados, predominantly in Japan and China, they have really weak tea, because they get the essence of what is in the tea leaf in the liquid, almost like a homeopathic solution way, and therefore, any particular benefits associated with them without having the contaminants associated with it, so dilute your tea. Dilute your coffee, but you might find that it gets to tasting just like water. But then again, that's the whole point, because that's how homeopathy works.

- Excuse me to ask you this, but are women's bodies naturally drop frequencies when they have period? How about when they are pregnant? I am wondering if their bodies' frequencies change as a result of their natural bodily functions.

No, they don't drop in frequency. Clearly, there is a predominance of thought surrounding the physical, because you are pregnant, you are physically interacting in a way, which is specifically to do with reproduction on a physical level. So I wouldn't say you drop in frequency, I would say that you probably get more attracted to the physical rather than metaphysical, if that makes any sense. So the way to think of it is in terms of, well, if you're pregnant, then continue meditations, and even communicate with the soul that's going to attach itself to the body or is in fact already attached to the body that's going to be your baby. So think of it that way and that way you'll maintain your frequencies and you'll maintain the increase in frequential level throughout the gestation period. But you don't lose anything, but you would be distracted by the physical, because you are therefore interacting with the physical albeit in a really profound way.

- How many TES does our SE have in total? Does the number constantly changing or it is a set amount? If the numbers of TES changes, what are the reasons for their increase and/or decrease?

There are billions of TES, billions and billions, probably trillions of TES of different sorts, different qualities of sentience. We know there's qualities of sentience being in those, who are now being allowed to incarnate here called the backfill people. There's the animals' level of quality of sentience. And there's also the plants' quality of sentience and other mineral quality of sentience. So there's lots and lots of them.

There are True Energetic Selves, who have finished their evolutionary cycle, and they elect to recombine with Source in the total way, which means they lose their individuality totally. So that would create and does create an overall gradual stream of loss of True Energetic Selves, as they become one with Source totally. So I can't tell you a number, but it's in its trillions, but those numbers are gradually getting smaller, as each TES finishes its evolutionary cycle.

- What happens to TES if it loses one of its Aspect? How does it effect its overall energy and its dominant evolutionary frequency?

TES don't lose their aspects. The aspect is always connected to its TES. So there's no such thing as a stray soul or a lost soul or anything like that. They are always connected to a TES. So a TES cannot lose one of its aspects. Aspects are either maintained in some form of individualized state in between their use of being or experiencing things within lower frequencies or within the multiverse, or they enter into some form of communion, or they enter into full communion.

So I'll guess if one of the aspects decides it wants to enter into full communion, and the TES wants those aspects to enter into full communion, it would reduce the number of aspects at that point, that a TES could project into the physical or the multiversal environment. But the TES can then reassign its own sentience and create another 12 aspects, for example. So whilst the TES is in the evolutionary cycle, it can always create 12 and each aspect can create 12 shards. So we're never going to lose an aspect. It will only get back into a state of full communion.

(55 min) Okay, that's all the questions I can use now, because we're already 56 minutes, so it's a long way through. And the rest of the questions I'm going to add into November. So from question #6 onwards from MO, they're going to November and the same with FN's questions as well.

Part 3. Meditation

So the next thing to do is go through the meditation today., which is to expand ourselves and meditate upon the potential to connect with other entities. Now there's two ways of doing this. The first way is an overall general meditation, which I'm going to do now.

The second way is to follow the Traversing the Frequencies correspondence courses, that are available from the website: www.beyondthesource.org and look for Correspondence Courses, or actually attend a physical workshop, of which there's very few at the moment for obvious reasons. But we have done some Zoom based ones in India, and a couple in China as well. So that may be the way forwards for some of the long distance stuff. They've been very successful. We've achieved exactly the same responses, same student capabilities via Zoom, as we would have done if we had been in a physical workshop. It's always nice to be in the same physicality as you all. So let's start this meditation.

(56 min) Please download the high quality MP3 File to do the guided meditation with Guy Steven Needler via his website or blog (meditation starts around 56:30 min).

(1:13 hr) Closing comments: Thank you very much for participating. Thank you for listening and being part of the meditation, thanking you for your questions. And don't forget that in January 2022, we start to go with the Zoom based one, which is basically just going to be the questions, Zoom based questions rather than sending questions in via email. So it will give a wider number of population a chance to ask questions. So Source's love to you all, God's love to you all, if you want to call it God. Namaste and blessings from myself and I look forward to working with you in November. Namaste." END

NOTE: I have prepared a Searchable pdf document with ALL World Satsanga Lectures, Questions and Answers collated from 2016-2021 to make it easier for us to see what questions have already been asked in previous Satsangas and what answers were given at the time.

This will allow us to ask NEW questions or ask similar questions from a different angle after reviewing what we already know. This document is over 600 pages, so don't try to print it out.

You can go to Needler's website (www.beyondthesource.org) to find the document at this URL:
